EXPORT INQUIRY CAUSED FIRMER TONE ON MARKET

Nevers & Callaghan Sugar
Market Review Takes Up
Prices Prior to Aug. 27

"Throughout the past week the market continued comparatively inactive, with business from day to day confined to rather small quantities, principally for prompt shipment," says the August 27 issue of the Sugar Market Review of Nevers & Callaghan of 99 Wall Street. "Holders in Cuba showed decided firmness and put forward only small offerings, but at the poor demand for refined, were rather indifferent buyers. The market generally remained steady at 3-11/16c basis 96 deg. c. & f. (4.70c), but on one lot in port sellers found it necessary to accept 3-5/8c basis 96 deg. c. & f. (4.64c) and one small parcel of Porto Ricans in the same position were sold at 4-5/8c basis 96 deg. c. & f. (4.77c). Only small lots came out at under 3-3/4c basis 96 deg. c. & f. (4.77c) and these were all taken up, and the market closes very steady in tone with buyers for Cubas in any position at 3-11/16c and limited quantities for September shipment on offer at 3-3/4c basis 96 deg. c. & f. Refiner's stocks of raw sugar here are about 100,000 tons less than a year ago and they have an unusual small amount bought to come forward. With the country bare of stocks of refined it would seem that the market is in a rather vulnerable position and should any buying movement of importance set in, higher prices would undoubtedly result. It is recognized, however, that stocks of refined held by refiners are undoubtedly much larger than at this time last year, and the course of the market hinges upon the appearance of a good demand for refined either from at home or from abroad.

"The weekly cable on Tuesday from Cuba reported receipts of 11,500 tons and five Centrals grinding, as compared to 14,000 tons receipts and three Centrals at work at the corresponding date last year. To-day, five Centrals are still in operation and rain is wanted in some sections of the island.

"The domestic demand for refined continued quite a disappointment and on the 24th inst. several cuts in prices were made. The American S. R. Co., National S. R. Co., and Warner S. R. Co., reduced prices to 5.60c less 2 per cent, and the Federal S. R. Co., and Arbuckle Bros., reduced prices to 5.50c less 2 per cent. The response from the trade was extremely poor, as the confidence of buyers appeared to be shaken by the numerous recent changes in prices and very little new business was booked. The withdrawals against old contracts continued small in volume. Some increased inquiry for export to Europe appeared and transactions amounting to 6000 tons were closed within the past day or two, but part of this business was in exchange of raw for refined sugars at an agreed upon differential.

"Further orders from France are under negotiations and it is generally believed that England will soon appear again as a buyer on a large scale. The increased export inquiry and the firmer tendency of raws caused the Federal S. R. Co. to put their price back to 5.60c less 2 per cent on the 26th inst. Old crop Western Beets have been offering in Eastern markets at 5.30c less 2 per cent, while Michigan Beets have been offering at 5.40c less 2 per cent. The quantity of these sugars actually available at this time is comparatively small and it will probably be October before the new crop is freely available. Meanwhile, the trade is very low on stocks of refined and September should prove to be a month of very good distribution. The trading in futures reached a total of 30,600 tons for the week. Prices continued to show wide fluctuations, September selling at 3.51c and 3.70c, the low and high point respectively. Closing quotations today are: September 3.68c @ 3.69c, October 3.57c @ 3.58c, November 3.47c @ 3.48c, December 3.25c @ 3.26c, and January and February 3.11c @ 3.12c.

NON-COMS. DANCE DRAWS CROWD TO HAWAII'S ARMORY

One of the prettiest and most beautiful dances held in the armory in a long time was the magnet which drew a large crowd to the benefit reception and dance there last night, given under the auspices of the Non-Commissioned Officers Club, National Guard of Hawaii.

The decorations were extremely novel and everyone reported the occasion to be enjoyable from start to finish. Music was furnished by the 1st Infantry band, N. G. H., and dancing did not conclude until midnight. Preceding the dance a reception was a feature with Col. Samuel I. Johnson, the adjutant-general, and Governor Lucius E. Pinkham heading the receiving line. The affair was the first of a series of dances and entertainments planned for the fall and winter season.

ARMY NOTES

Honolulu School for Boys will again have the services of Capt. James E. Bell, commissary 2d Infantry, as military instructor. The captain devotes two afternoons a week to instruction in drill, marching, and personal hygiene.

Capt. Joseph B. Douglas, Signal Corps, has been relieved from detail in that division of army service. As he stands number two on the list of Coast Artillery captains, his relief from detail is probably due to his impending promotion to the rank of major.

After serving a number of years in the 2d Infantry, when it was stationed at Fort Logan, Colo., Capt. Paul C. McCook, 1st Infantry, is scheduled to leave San Francisco today for Honolulu, to join the 2d Infantry at Fort Shafter. Mrs. McCook is coming here with her husband.

Plans to have the Fort Shafter post exchange truck make a daily trip from the post to the regiment's camp, during its practice marches this month, have been completed. The truck will be under direction of Lieut. Abraham and will carry such delicacies as are in demand among the men.

CAROLINA TOURISTS ARE LIKELY TO COME TO HAWAII THIS FALL

Just when the American flag is about to move off the Pacific ocean in wholesale lots, as far as American steamships are concerned, interest in travel to the Hawaiian Islands is commencing to wake up and a number of people who had planned to go to other places have decided upon Hawaii as their travel objective.

Bessie Hill Hackney, secretary of the Raleigh, N. C., chamber of commerce, who has been in correspondence with the Promotion Committee, thanks the committee for its illustrated literature and says that its reading has given her a very strong desire to see the islands, and that if she can persuade the members of her party, which intended going to the Thousand Island and Nova Scotia, to change their plans she will bring them all over to Hawaii, and concludes with a bit of delicate phrasing when she says: "Raleigh is second to Honolulu, and North Carolina second to Hawaii--the best place in the world to call home." Warren W. Foster, a leading attorney of New York City and one of the leading members of the bench until his retirement recently, has made inquiries for literature. So has F. J. Williams, vice-president of the National Lumber and Creosoting Company of El Paso. He and a party of El Pasans are figuring on a trip here this fall.

THREE CLASSES OF STUDENTS AT HAWAII COLLEGE

The College of Hawaii offers six different courses leading to degrees, namely, in agriculture, mechanical engineering, civil engineering, general science, including the biological and physical sciences and household economics, sugar technology A emphasizing the agricultural phases, and sugar technology B, emphasizing the engineering phases. On the satisfactory completion of a regular course, the student is given the degree of bachelor of science, the diploma designating the course which has been pursued.

To be admitted to one of these courses a candidate must either have graduated from a four-year course in an approved high school or academy or offer 15 entrance credits.

That the privileges of the college may be enjoyed by all who are capable of profiting by the instruction, two other classes of students are recognized, though not as candidates for degrees. Their standing in the college is similar to that of summer school students in the mainland institutions. These two classes are designated as special students and as extension students.

Special students are ordinarily persons of some maturity who desire to take only a few courses. They are admitted upon giving satisfactory evidence of such training as would fit them to take the courses desired. No student, however, who has been in attendance at any preparatory school shall be admitted as a special student before his class has graduated, except by special permission of the faculty of the College of Hawaii.

Extension students are those attending classes merely as visitors. They are not expected to take part in recitations, discussions or examinations, and they are not given any college credits. Extension students will be admitted to extension courses without examination; but they must obtain the written approval of the committee on entrance and of the instructor in charge of the course or courses desired.

All candidates for matriculation should first make application to the committee on entrance. A member of the committee will be at the college every morning during the week. Application forms will be furnished on request. All details regarding admission should be passed upon before registration day, Monday, September 13. All students, both new and old, will report at the college on that day to register and to organize classes. All persons registering after that day will be charged a late registration fee of $1.
